MASKED BANDITS ROB MAIL CAR OF SIX MAIL SACKS

BELIEVED TO HAVE SECURED
FROM $10,000 TO $80,000
IN LOOT

(By United Press)
Chicago, Sept. 25.—Masked bandits early today robbed the mail car of an Illinois Central fast train as it was approaching Chicago and escaped with the contents of six registered mail sacks.

The loot was estimated at between $10,000 and $80,000. A check was being made to determine the exact amount.

The same train was robbed six months ago by LeRoy Walton, who was killed in a revolver battle with police after they tracked him to a fashionable apartment building. He obtained $85,000.

The bandits today forced the train to slow down by a block signal at Tucker, Ill. They hid between two mail cars. When a mail clerk started from one car to the other the masked men forced him back into the first car. Five clerks were bound hand and feet. They were forced to lie on the floor of the car while the two robbers investigated the sacks.

Near the outskirts of Chicago the train was forced to slow down and the men leaped off. Police were notified shortly afterwards and a rifle squadron scattered through the district. Two clerks in the holdup were on the train robbed by Walton. They believed the bandits belong to the same gang. Three of the regular mail sacks taken were from Memphis, one from New Orleans, one from St. Louis and one from Champaign, Ill. "Sometimes these sacks contain as much as $200,000, but we don't know what was in them this time," officials said.

Two suspects were taken into custody early today. Police refused to reveal the names of the men. One man was taken when seen spending a large amount of money on trivial items.

TRYING TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF WEALTHY MINING MAN'S DEATH

(By United Press)

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—Efforts to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Jacob Charles Denton, wealthy mining man, whose body was found buried in the basement of his home here, today centered around a statement of James C. Crowhurst, a plumber. He was not under arrest. It was expected he would testify before the grand jury today.

Crowhurst, in his statement, said he had been engaged to make changes in the Denton home by Mrs. R. C. Peete, now living in Denver.

"While looking over the water heating system in the basement, Mrs. Peete said to me: 'Now it will not be necessary for you to go into that little room, will it?' indicating a small crudely constructed room under the stairway," the alleged statement said. Crowhurst alleged he was told there was a quantity of liquor in the compartment.

RETAIL PRICES OF 248 ARTICLES HAVE BEEN REDUCED

AND WHOLESALE PRICES OF 150
COMMODITIES HAVE SLUMPED
FROM 1 TO 11 PER CENT

RALPH COUCH,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 25.—At least 248 articles of food, clothing and manufactured commodities have been forced into the retail and wholesale price slashing movement which is spreading over the entire country, according to government reports today.

Retail prices of forty-eight commodities have been cut, according to lists compiled by the labor department.

Wholesale prices of approximately 150 commodities have slumped from one to eleven per cent.

In addition the commerce department average export price list showed a slash of fifty-four out of eighty commodities listed.

Scores of articles of food and manufactured products have been reduced for export although they are selling at the same price in the United States. This indicates, officials said, these prices soon will go down in the American market.

Rent, building material and dwellings seemed one exception to the general price cutting movement. The country is approximately five years behind in building needs, according to officials of the United States Housing Corporation.

Retail price cuts have been reported in many articles of food, shoes, hats, and women's and men's suits. Cloth, both cotton and woolen, candy and bituminous coal have slumped from two to three dollars per ton in the east, the statement said.

Groups of commodities in which wholesale prices decreased which were reported are farm products, food, clothing and cloth, chemicals and drugs.

Wholesale Price of Fruit Low
Prices paid producers for leading fruit and vegetables have gone so low the producers are actually losing money, the department of agriculture announced today.

Wholesale prices for these crops have come down, the department said. Retail prices however were not included in the survey of the department. The violent price drop the department said, were due to the abundance of leading producing crops. That the drop would be permanent was shown in a statement that "there is a surplus equal to the most extensive demand that can develop."

Dessert Co. Announces Reduction
The first big reduction in manufactured food products to be announced in the country since the peak of high cost of living started down, was announced here today when the Jiffy Dessert Co. announced that a reduction of approximately 20 per cent had been made in their many food products.

COX CAMPAIGNING THROUGH COLORADO

HERBERT WALKER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Denver, Colo., Sept. 25.—Representatives of Governor James M. Cox today began investigation of reports that pro-German interests in this country are starting a vigorous campaign for Senator Warren G. Harding's candidacy. It was learned from Cox's close advisors.

Governor Cox indicated he will make speeches charging that should Harding be elected the pro-Germans hope the Versailles treaty will be scrapped and Germany will obtain more lenient terms.

"Have you noticed," asked Cox, "a leader of pro-Germans in New York is going to support Harding because he believes the republican candidate stands for separate peace with Germany and thinks Germany will be able to obtain easier peace terms?"

He did not name the leader. He declared the republican leaders were planning a campaign through the German press.

Before starting for a day of stamping campaigns in northern Colorado and Wyoming, Cox today replied to Senator Harding's recent front porch statement on the Irish problem. He charged Harding "dodged" the roll call on a resolution of sympathy to Ireland voted by the senate.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSE COMMITTEE WILL TAKE UP PRIMARY EXPENSE

L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 25.—Following "leads" recently presented to the senate campaign fund investigating committee, it next intends to inquire into alleged lavish use of money influence in several primaries this year.

It was uncertain when this phase of the investigation will begin. Senator Kenyon, the chairman, said that the committee will take it up as soon as it gets time.

Allegations credited to Senator Underwood that $250,000 was used against him in Alabama, will be among the first lifted.

Charges that federal officials and employees were sworn into line to defeat Thomas W. Hardwick, in Georgia, for renomination to the senate, because he had been anti-administration, also were to be taken up, and similar charges with respect to Senator Gore's recent defeat in Oklahoma, were before the committee.

Senator Kenyon announced the committee would adjourn today and meet again in St. Louis Oct. 18, to complete an investigation started there some time ago.

Stars and Stripes Financed by Democratic National Committee

W. D. Jamieson, financial director of the democratic national committee, advanced $34,000 to Mrs. H. M. Parks, his secretary, which she put into the "Stars and Stripes," a paper for war veterans. Mrs. Parks testified before the senate campaign fund investigating committee today.

Mrs. Parks refused to tell the names of other democrats who loaned money to put into the paper.

"I borrowed all but $10,000 of the $48,000 I have put into the paper," said Mrs. Parks.

"No member of the democratic national committee has ever loaned the paper any money or invested in it," she said.

Mrs. Parks said she insisted she be given fifty-one per cent of the paper's stock in return for an agreement to finance it. The "Stars and Stripes" was to be kept out of politics. She said she had been threatened by republicans to force her to sell the paper.

(United Press)

HARDING SPEAKS TO TRAVELING MEN

SAYS DARK DAYS ARE AHEAD OF AMERICA UNLESS WE GET BACK TO MAIN ROAD

RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Marion, Ohio, Sept. 25.—"Dark days are ahead for America unless we get back on the main road," it was predicted by Senator Warren G. Harding in a speech to a large delegation of commercial travelers from all over the country today. He sounded a warning, that unless a change is made soon, America will have a no-hour day, and industrial plants will be idle and cold, with labor walking the streets looking in vain for the joy of a day's productive work.

Harding urged for America the brand of idealism "that is not too proud to work."

"We have been driven toward a chaos, I believe, not only by unsuccessful attempts to mortgage American rights, American fortunes, and American conscience abroad, and to check American nationality and American honor in the cloak room of the president's league of nations in Geneva, but we have been driven toward a chaos, by hindering hands reaching out against American prosperity by experimenting in new economic theories."

SEARCH BEING MADE FOR BANK BANDITS

(By United Press)

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 25.—A statewide search was being conducted today for the six bandits who yesterday attempted to loot the Exchange bank of this city and escaped with $800, snatched from a counter after shooting one of the bank employees. It is thought the gang is the same that robbed the Prairie Farm State bank Wednesday night.

German Property Worth $400,000,000 Held by U. S.

(United Press)

Washington, Sept. 25.—Approximately $400,000,000 worth of property seized from German and Austrian owners when the U. S. got into the war still is under the trusteeship of Alien Property Custodian Garvan, it was estimated here today.

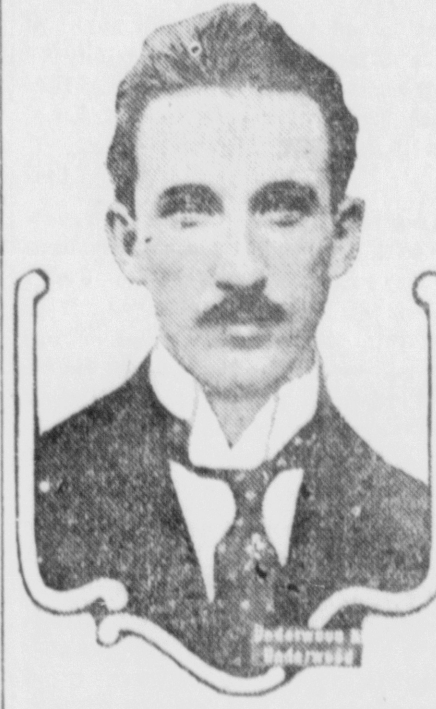

According to this estimate, something like $300,000,000 worth of property has been returned to its owners under the amendment to the Trading-With-the-Enemy act passed last fall by Congress. Exact details of the transactions will not be available until Garvan makes his annual report to Congress.

Future disposition of the property still held is one of the problems that will confront the Congress which settles the question of the peace treaty. The property still held, which includes hundreds of going concerns manufacturing practically every product from chemicals to steel, now is piling up profits which further complicate the problem of what disposition to make. These profits now are being invested in Liberty bonds and government securities subject to the direction of the treasury department.

Approximately 25,000 persons of German and Austrian origin were interested in the property seized by the alien property custodian. A smaller number of Americans are, or were, owners of property seized by Germany, when the U. S. entered the war. Provision for return of this American property by Germany is made in the peace treaty. Due to the fact that the U. S. has not ratified the treaty, no returns have yet been made by the Germans.

When France, Great Britain and Italy, approved the treaty, their governments at once began arrangements to credit Germany with the value of the property held.

The letters are warnings against divulgence of further facts regarding Pacini's personal affairs. They were slipped under the door of persons the sender wanted to reach.

Alexander Smith Cochran, of New York, known as "America's wealthiest bachelor," has lost that title. According to dispatches from Paris he has married Mme. Ganna Walska, Russian singer, who has appeared on the American concert stage. She was a former favorite in Petrigard. Her husband Baron Arcadie d'Eingorn, captain in the Russian army, was killed during the war. Mr. Cochran is a sportsman with an international reputation. NAME OF FIXER IN WORLD SERIES KNOWN TO JURY

COMISKEY SAYS HE WILL FIRE
ANY CROOKED RED SOX PLAYER

(United Press)

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Names of alleged "fixers" of the world series games between Chicago and Cincinnati in 1919, have been obtained by H. P. Brigham, foreman of the Cook county grand jury, investigating baseball scandal, he intimated today.

"We have an idea who the 'fixer' was and we think we are on his track," Brigham said.

Arnold Rothstein, a New York gambler and part owner of an eastern race track; Abe Attel, former heavy-weight boxing champion; Bill Burns, former White Sox pitcher, and Hal Chase, recently banished from baseball, were mentioned today in connection with the alleged plot to throw games.

The betting syndicate offered to pay $100,000, according to reports of the plot.

Bets were placed throughout the country by the syndicate, it was said.

Chas. A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, referring to the reported world series plot, said that he would fire any member of the team found guilty of crookedness by the grand jury, even if it meant wrecking of pennant chances.

He said he would close the park unless honest baseball players could be secured.

DECLINE IN GRAIN QUOTATIONS CONTINUE ON CHICAGO MARKET

(United Press)

Chicago, Sept. 25.—The decline in grain quotations continued on the Chicago board of trade during the short session today. The volume of trade was light and fluctuations were not as violent as during the last few days. Continued good crop weather and lack of buying power were given as the reason for the drop.

FOOL THE CUSTOMS OFFICERS

Canadian and Maine Farmers Said to Have Ingenious Systems of Smuggling Devices.

Entirely aside from questions of tariff reform, reciprocity and free-trade with Canada would help to put an end to the constant lawbreaking that goes on along the border. It is estimated that eight thousand persons are engaged in smuggling goods across the line.

One instance has been reported in which a party of schoolboys coasting in an old punt down a hill that slopes across the boundary, apparently for fun, brought with them at every trip a chest of tea, until fifty chests had been smuggled into Maine, contrary to law.

Again, an "aqueduct" of small lead pipe, half a mile long, was secretly laid from a tavern in the Dominion to a public house on the other side of the line, through which hundreds of barrels of gin and other liquors were pumped. Nor are such "aqueducts" always restricted to liquors. A wooden spout was used for years to convey oats across the boundary.

The lawbreakers were a New Brunswick farmer named Cudley and a neighbor across the line named Armstrong. Armstrong raised about six hundred bushels of oats on his farm and sold ten times that quantity to the lumber camps. The customs officers watched his premises and searched them at times, but were never able to discover anything wrong until after he moved away, when they found a square spout, made of boards and buried under the snow and piles of brush, which extended from Cudley's barn to a bin in the Maine man's granary. Inside this conduit was a long belt provided with tin cups and attached to a winch that could be turned by a crank in Cudley's barn. Youth's Companion.

IDEAS IN GOWNS FROM THE STAGE

Actresses in Paris Provide Interesting Fashions That Attract Attention.

TAILOR-MADE SUIT POPULAR

Outfit, Although the Most Expensive, Is Quite in the Limelight—Blouse Comes into Its Own Again.

The wide skirt is dying hard in Paris, owing to the popularity of the house of Jeanne Lanvin, who dresses many chic Parisiennes. The fact that it was Lanvin who launched the hip extended full skirt and that she has persisted in exploiting it is doubtless the reason why certain women continue to accept that style, writes a prominent Paris fashion correspondent.

This fashion is noted especially among the actresses in Paris, some of the most important of whom are dressed by Lanvin. This is partly due to their fidelity to the dressmaker, as it is quite the custom in Paris for a woman to be dressed by one house exclusively. This gives her a marked individuality and she is looked upon as an exponent of the fashion creations of that particular house. To be seen in costumes from another dressmaker would be almost like a betrayal of confidence.

One of the most popular French actresses playing light comedy roles is Jane Renouard. This actress has been wearing Lanvin's clothes for several seasons, and in one of her late roles she wore only the white-skirted hip extended models so characteristic of that house. It must be admitted that dresses of this type are eminently suitable to a coquettish and dashing young woman of slender, graceful build. Renouard looks so admirable in her Lanvin dresses that one cannot doubt that she greatly aids in the continuance of this fashion.

Organdie Over Black Taffeta. A rose-colored organdie dress, made up over a hip extended foundation of black taffeta, is very beautiful. The organdie is a slip-over-the-head, chemise style, with considerable fullness on the hips. The dress opens in a wide panel down the front to show the black foundation. About the waist is a black taffeta ribbon sash tied in a simple square-looped bow at the back. This ribbon has a border of rose-colored satin, matching exactly the tone of the organdie. Interesting ornamentation, in the form of a flat were deprived of man-colored street costumes, owing to the fact that all masculine workers in dressmaking shops were mobilized. Now the tailored suit comes back into fashion with all the force and interest of a novelty.

For this reason the blouse, from a standpoint of fashion, is again coming into its own. Considerable interest is manifested in the simple tailored blouse with frilled collar and revers. Some of these new shirt style blouses are high necked, with a collar somewhat in Peter Pan shape, but falling from the top of a straight neckband. This style of collar was launched by Lanvin in connection with a number of her tailored suits and blouses, and neckwear manufacturers have taken it up.

The wide ribbon sash-girdle is still one of the most popular trappings. Practically all the leading dressmaking houses as well as the milliners are using this form of trimming, and it has met with great success. In many instances when ordering a simple one-piece dress two sashes are made, one in self-tone and one in contrast. The narrow belt of colored galalith is second in popularity, this form being used for belting coats, jackets and simple serge dresses. The shades most in demand are jade green, red and royal blue.

The Ribbon Girdle.
Roman striped ribbon girdles are used to good advantage on frocks of navy blue. Bright colored ribbon generally will be used extensively for sashes and girdles, the ribbon usually being brought around the waist and tied with long uneven ends at the side.

Quakerish.
The American designed street costume shows a Quaker influence in its gray coloring and demure lines.

Prize Pupil Who, at 13, Enters Teachers' College

Hunter College is where New York girls go when they decide that they want to teach the world what it ought to know. This is a photograph of Helen Koch, thirteen years of age, the youngest pupil who has ever been permitted to take up studies there. School officials who have observed her during her elementary training declare she is a marvel. She skipped four of the higher grades. Helen excels particularly in mathematics.

She Never Kicks.
A Los Angeles man has been granted a divorce because his wife forced him to do the family wash. If women ever asked divorce on such grounds the courts would all have to operate night shifts.

PATHE NEWS

Hearty Welcome Given to Actuelle Records—Instantaneous Success of Needle Cuts—Two Million More Customers Available

From coast to coast comes the pleasing word that Actuelle Records have filled a long felt want among dealers and their customers who wanted to enjoy needle cut records with the Pathe tone, made by favorite Pathe artists upon their steel needle, talking machines.

The arrival of the Actuelle records furnished Pathe dealers with more than two million immediately available customers and the number of telegraphic repeat and enlarged orders from every part of the country proves that many owners of the "half a-phonograph" which only play one kind of records, were not slow to take advantage of the new Actuelle records.

The advent of the Actuelle records accomplished at least two very important things: It made it possible for the public to enjoy Pathe artists on steel machines and over night it made a "record prospect" for Pathe dealers of every owner of any kind of a phonograph in the world.

Get Lucky Tips in Dreams.
When an Italian has a dream he doesn't go tell his friends about it for the sake of making conversation, but hurries to get his dream book to find out what the dream portends. The book has a number for everything man wears, has, eats and sees. Things shown in a dream are looked up, and the corresponding numbers are played by the Italian in the week's national lottery. And if he doesn't win, says Kenneth L. Roberts in the Saturday Evening Post, he feels positive that somebody with the Evil Eye has looked at him and broken his chances. The man with the Evil Eye is hated, feared and shunned.

Keeping Water Cool.
The only way to keep water cool is to surround it with some material that is a bad conductor of heat, or in other words, does not pass on the heat too rapidly. The poorest conductor of heat is a vacuum or space from which the air has been excluded; hence, a thermos or vacuum flask makes the best container for cold water. Other bad conductors of heat are wood, leather, felt, horn, bone; containers made of or covered with these materials will keep liquids cooler than those made of metal or glass.

Curing Intolerance of Milk.
Dr. Genegrier reports to the French Pediatrics society that a newly born infant which could not take milk in any form was cured by three subcutaneous injections, one every other day, of 8, 16 and 30 mils of sterilized cow's milk. The third injection was followed by violent vomiting and rigors, but from this moment the baby tolerated milk by the mouth in progressive doses, beginning with five and ending with 350 grams a day.

National Amenities.
England will return to the state of Kentucky a flag which was captured from Kentucky volunteers at the battle of the Thames in Michigan in the war of 1812. The Kentucky legislature has appropriated money to send to England a commissioner who will bring back the flag. This commissioner, James Buchanan of Louisville, is a descendant of the commander of the Kentucky troops in the battle.

THE TONNAGE TAX IN THE CAMPAIGN

(Duluth Herald)

Laurence C. Hodgson, the democratic candidate for governor, fired the opening guns of his campaign at Fairmont last evening.

And his first and biggest gun was one aimed at Northern Minnesota—the tonnage tax.

We may as well be frank about this thing. The tonnage tax is a measure aimed directly at the most vital interests of every man, woman and child in Northern Minnesota, and it would be folly to expect the people of this section to accept as a friend any man who raises against them such issue as this, and promises to enrich the people of other sections at their expense.

Mr. Hodgson, like the nonpartisan leaguers who dug up this issue after it was virtually dead, buried and forgotten, declares that his tonnage tax is a new thing, and benevolent and beneficent. There is no such animal, and there never can be such an animal, as a 'good' tonnage tax. The only good tonnage tax is a dead one. This one was dead till Townley dug it up and set it on its feet, and ever since it has been used by two-thirds of the men seeking votes outside of Northeastern Minnesota as a convenient means of boosting themselves into office.

For that is what the tonnage tax always was and still is—a convenient political stepping stone to be used in sections that do not know the iniquity and injustice of the proposal, and therefore are naturally in favor of it. Color it, disguise it, dress it up as you may, the tonnage tax is simply a proposal to levy a special tribute upon a minority section of the state. It is not claimed, it cannot be claimed, that the mining industry and the mining regions do not bear their full share of state taxation. The figures would give the lie to it if the claim were made.

The tonnage tax is aimed at the prosperity of a part of the state that includes one-fourth the total area of the state, one-eighth of its population, and—here is the clue to it all—only one-ninth of the total vote.

And the iniquity and injustice of this proposal is disclosed by the further fact that this region which casts only one-ninth of the vote, by virtue of its iron mining industry already pays ONE-FOURTH of the state's taxes. And its iron property is assessed for taxation twenty-five per cent higher than any other property.

The tonnage tax proposal is to levy a special tribute upon this region and its peculiar industry for the benefit of the rest of the state.

No such special tribute is levied upon the foreign ores that compete with Minnesota's ores.

No such special tribute is levied upon the ores of other American states which also compete with Minnesota's ores.

The tonnage tax might legitimately be called a measure to impose a handicap upon Minnesota's iron ores for the benefit of the iron ores of other states.

Since the threat of such a penalty has already paralyzed exploration and development, and the effect of such a penalty would be to make it impossible to utilize the billions of tons of lean ores not now in use, the tonnage tax might also be called legitimately a measure to paralyze the iron mining industry of Minnesota.

Mr. Hodgson in his Fairmont speech said: "If the time ever comes when the iron mines are deserted, the state must assume the burden of creating in their place some form of opportunity for those who live in Northern Minnesota. It is only just that those who help to create the need for state expenditures for such purposes should be contributing in some degree to the sinking fund that will finally pay the bill."

Northern Minnesota, by its experience with the attitude of the state at large, has learned not to expect that the state will ever contribute out of its treasury anything whatever to create any special form of opportunity to replace the iron mining industry when it is gone. Nor does it ask the state to do anything of the sort. In large part by the taxes raised locally upon the iron mines, Northern Minnesota already is developing its agriculture, which will create ample opportunity for everybody when the iron mines are idle, and long before. Yet if the state imposes such a rich tribute as Mr. Hodgson urges, it must inevitably encroach upon these local revenues, and thus make it impossible for Northern Minnesota to help itself. And all Northern Minnesota asks is that the state refrain from levying tribute, and give it a fair chance to work out its own destiny.

And as to the "sinking fund" idea, no sinking fund is proposed in this measure. All that is proposed is a new source of rich revenues, every dollar of which the legislature will dissipate, as it has dissipated all other new revenues, without a penny's gain to any taxpayer.

When the state's indirect revenues were greatly increased by an increase in the railroad gross earnings tax, the taxpayers were promised a reduction in the direct state tax. Did they get it? They did not! They got, instead, radical increases in their state taxes; for the legislature has shown not only that it can spend every dollar the state can furnish, but that the more it gets to spend the more it wants to spend.

The tonnage tax is a rank example of sectional injustice. It is a handy means of courting the support of eight-ninths of the voters by men who feel that they can defy the one-ninth who live in the iron country and directly or indirectly depend upon the prosperity of the iron industry.

Men who come championing such measures of gross injustice and rank oppression need not expect the friendship of the people at whom their underhanded blow is directly aimed.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Best Theatre

"The Peddler of Lies," had its first showing at the Best theatre last night. The large audience found much to amuse and interest them in this unusual offering.

Special interest is attached to this production because it recently was published as "The Peddler," in the Saturday Evening Post. Many screen patrons already had visualized the various characters and incidents. To the credit of Universal it must be said that the audience was not disappointed. H. Tipton Steck, who wrote the scenario, followed the original story very closely, and William C. Dowlan, who directed it, retained all the atmosphere and mystery of the printed novel.

In the role of Clamp, the peddler, Frank Mayo gave a clean cut characterization, carrying out the illusion of the itinerant merchant with quaint and jovial humor. Ora Carew, as Diana Kirkland, who first patronizes Clamp, then likes him, then despises him and finally loves him, shared stellar honors with Mayo. Among the principal players are Ray Ripley, Bonnie Hill, Dagmar Godowsky, Ora Devereaux, Flora Hollister, Truman Van Dyke, Harold Miller, James Britton and William Brown.

Many beautiful exterior scenes are shown on a local screen. In "The Peddler of Lies," they were taken at a wealthy seaside colony.

"LINGER LONGER LETTY"

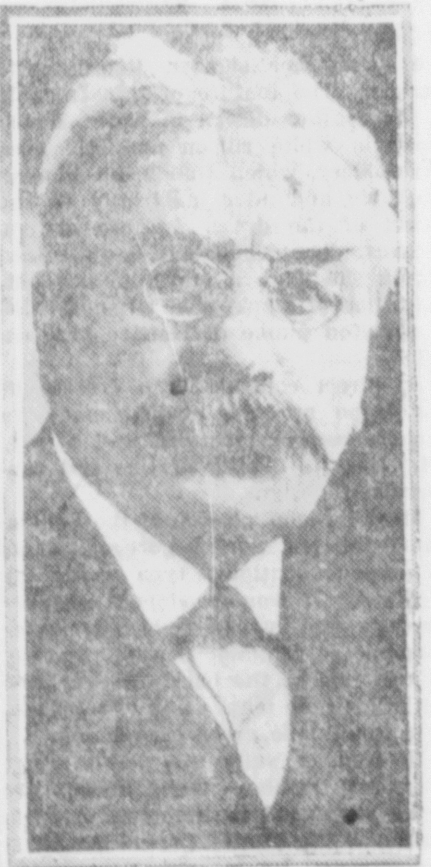

One of the Largest Houses of Season Grooms Charlotte Greenwood at the New Park

"Linger Longer Letty" played to one of the largest houses at the New Park theatre this season and the audience comprising Brainerd and range people and a large number from the Fordson tractor dealers convention, enjoyed it hugely as it followed the metamorphosis of Letty, played by Charlotte Greenwood, from kitchen drudge to a social butterfly.

Miss Greenwood is the best female comedian ever seen in Brainerd. Her droll interpretation of the role could never have been assumed if she had not been blessed with a number of brothers and sisters. It takes two acts before Letty's strike and rebellion is fairly under way and then the rest of the family is in sore straits for a cook.

Robert Higgins as "Jim," the returned sailor who assists in the mutual chrysalis performance and rejuvenation of "cottages," is a most satisfying Jim with his long drawl and slow decisions.

The chorus was handsome, good dancers and singers, finely costumed. The music under the direction of Harry James was very good.

Hearing on Application to Charter Bank Set for October 15 at State Securities Commission

A new bank is being planned for Brainerd, the "Commercial State Bank of Brainerd" with a capital of $25,000 and surplus of $5,000.

Application is to be made to the State Securities Commission for a bank charter, the hearing to be held at 9:30 a. m. October 15.

Petitions are being circulated in Brainerd and signers secured, the preamble of the petitions reading:

REXALL STRAW VOTE

Most Accurate and Far Reaching Vote of Any Presidential Election Ever Attempted

The most accurate and far reaching straw vote of any presidential election ever attempted in this country is now under way. Millions of ballots will be cast in this Rexall test vote, and at least two weeks before the November elections those who follow this straw vote will be able to tell without fear of contradiction who is to be the next occupant of the White House, and by how many votes he will win, says circular issued by United Drug Co.

In order to accomplish this titanic task eight thousand Rexall Drug stores in the United States have been designated by the United Drug Company, of Boston, as the balloting points. In each store a clerk has been detailed to conduct the ballot and thus insure a sure and fair test to vote. There will be no stuffing of the ballot boxes, nor will there be any repeating.

The big unknown quantity in the forthcoming election is the women's vote. In order to accurately compute this vote, two ballot boxes have been installed in each Rexall drug store, one for the male vote, the other for the women. Each night the vote will be counted, that of men and women tallied separately.

In order to handle this straw vote an interchange of upwards of thirty thousand messages, telegraphic and telephonic, will be necessary each day. Beginning October 1, announcement will be made daily of the vote, and with eight thousand drug stores to draw upon, it is safe to say that many million votes will be cast and compiled.

An actual test of the Rexall straw vote was made in the last presidential campaign. While balloting was conducted only nine days in all the stores, yet several million votes were cast and five days before election the figures were announced.

This test vote showed that President Wilson had been re-elected by a small majority. It showed that he would carry California and also New Hampshire, an announcement which brought indignant denials from those opposed to him. When total vote cast in the Rexall straw vote was compared with those cast in the November election, they differed from the actual figures less than one half of one per cent. With thirty days of balloting in the present test vote, not only can the readers be kept in momentary touch with the temper of the public, but they will get a very definite idea as to how the women of the nation will vote on November 2 next.

Johnson's Pharmacy, of this city, will get the vote daily, and it will be published in The Daily Dispatch.

FORDSON DEALERS BANQUET FRIDAY

C. C. Hildebrand of Minneapolis, Manager of the Ford State Branch is Toastmaster

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE DEALERS

Methods of Salesmanship, Etc., Taken Up—Brainerd Meeting Wins High Praise

Declared by C. C. Hildebrand of Minneapolis, the toastmaster of the banquet given Fordson dealers, bankers and others Friday evening at the Ransford hotel, that the Brainerd Fordson demonstration was one of the most successful and enthusiastic ever held, with all arrangements carried out in a business like way and vying with those held in Sioux Falls, S. D., Eau Claire, Wis., and Watertown, N. D., the town of Brainerd thus gained fame and a large measure of praise was given the local firm of Woodhead Motor Co., under whose auspices the tractor demonstration was given.

Menu

This menu was discussed at the Ransford hotel, service and cuisine being of the best:

Oyster Cocktail
Sunshine Wafers
Creme de Chicken
Celery en Branch
Queen Olives
Fried Half Spring Chicken
French Fried Potatoes
French Peas in cream en cases
Head Lettuce and Tomato Salad
1000 Island Dressing
Parker House Rolls
Vanilla Ice Cream
Cocoanut Cake
Demi Tasse

C. C. Hildebrand

C. C. Hildebrand, manager of the Minneapolis branch of the Ford company, said he was pleased at the demonstration held, the weather, attendance, and the seventeen operations performed by the Fordson tractor. Everyone was pleased they had come.

He counseled the dealers present to put forth every effort to sell tractors. Cars would continue to be shipped on orders. Ten day reports had to be made on cars and tractors. The change in prices announced will stimulate business and make up a good fall business for the dealers.

He asked for pictures of Ford buildings and service stations. He did not want dealers to exchange tractors, unless the Minneapolis office was first advised in the matter. This was done to keep records up properly and give each man proper credit for all tractors sold.

He told of plans to sell to the farmer and how to approach prospects and close deals. There had been many bankers at the Brainerd demonstration. He related how the Ford system of keeping account of sales kept the business of each station in fine shape. It was better than the old commercial system of annual inventories.

"The banker will loan money on cattle, as the latter improve a farm. But here is a tractor, which does not break a leg, does not get sick or is stolen, is always ready for field work and whose use saves labor and directly increases the productivity of the farm. One does more plowing and better too, and in less time. As production is increased, the whole community is benefited, the banks too, for the farmer has more money to deposit."

A. J. Hayes

A. J. Hayes, cashier of the First National bank of Brainerd, gave an excellent address on farming and the advancement made in agriculture and the part the banks can play in the development of a community. He told of how as a farmer had he planted corn by hand on his father's farm. Fifteen acres was the size of the corn plot. Later came corn planting by machinery and the plot increased in size to 40 acres.

Banks should be posted on conditions and the financial problem of every legitimate customer was one which the bank should give pains to solve. The farmer today cannot afford to be without truck or tractor and banks should do their part to finance all legitimate business.

D. E. Miller

D. E. Miller of Minneapolis, of the Ford Motor sales department, explained tractor sales methods, and asked the cooperation of the dealers. Service men of his department will aid in the solution of problems. Road men will represent the company.

W. H. Schmelzel

W. H. Schmelzel of the Schmelzel implement distributors' house of Minneapolis, praised the Woodhead Co. for the fine demonstration. The tractor was no ornament. It was made to be used. He told of how

SOUND GOVERNMENT TO BE THE TOPIC

F. G. R. Gordon of Haverhill, Mass., to Speak at Gardner Hall on Monday Evening

KNOWS THE LABOR QUESTION

Worked 14 Years as Right Hand Man of Samuel Gompers and Still Affiliated With A. F. of L.

Brainerd on Monday evening, Sept. 27, will have the opportunity to hear F. G. R. Gordon of Haverhill, Mass., talk on "Sound Government". He is a speaker of national reputation and one whom none can afford to miss.

Mr. Gordon worked for 14 years with Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, as his right hand man and is still affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. He was chosen by Mr. Gompers to assist him in his debate with Morris Hillquit a leading socialist of America.

Mr. Gordon is thoroughly familiar with labor questions and has spent some time in North Dakota and knows the conditions there intimately. Before the Minnesota primary election last June he spoke to farmer audiences in the Red River counties of Minnesota and has received many requests to return for talks this fall.

Ladies are specially invited to the meeting on Monday evening. They will cast their first vote for president in November and are interested in issues involved.

DILLINHAM-NEVERS

Miss Evelyn Dillingham of Spokane, Wash., Married to Ralph Nevers, Formerly of Brainerd

(From Spokane Review of Sept. 14) Miss Evelyn Dillingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Dillingham, will be married at noon today at the home of her parents, W. 2627 Riverside, to Ralph Nevers of this city. The Rev. Joel Harper will officiate and only the immediate families of the young people will be present.

The wedding music will be played by Leonardo Brill and his orchestra and after the ceremony a wedding breakfast will be served. The decorations in the living room and throughout the house will be of pink and white. Afterward the young couple will leave for a ten day wedding trip to the coast. They will be at home after October 2 at the Elm apartments.

The wedding music will be played many parties given in honor of the bride-elect, who is well known here. The bridegroom is a popular young business man.

Dr. Carroll Smith gave a dinner party at the Country club last evening followed by a bridge in honor of Miss Evelyn Dillingham and Ralph Nevers. The table was massed with flowers in tints of pink, shading to rose. Sweet peas, gladioli and roses were used. There were corsage bouquets at each plate for the ladies with a bouquet of pink roses for Miss Dillingham. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boutin, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hough, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McClintock, Miss Evelyn Dillingham, Miss Margaret Jensen, Miss Jean Porter, Miss Katherine Clark, Miss Sybil Spencer, Miss Harriet Post, Miss Dorothy Dodson, Miss Naddie McGlaughlin, Miss May Twohey, Earl McGlaughlin, Scott Jensen, George Nevers, Harry Clattiere, Perry Hoffman, Dr. Reba Smith, Dr. Roy Donaldson, Ralph Nevers and Dr. Carroll Smith.

Henry Ford passed on various appliances to be used in connection with Fordson tractors. After the manner spreader had been solved, the mower was being considered. Dealers and prospects must be educated and the tractor must do more than simply plow land. The farmers should be sold tractors the year round.

John F. Woodhead

C. C. Hildebrand grew reminiscent and told how one of the best of his salesmen in the early days was John F. Woodhead and he traced his start with the company to his business in Brainerd.

Mr. Woodhead in his address laid stress on the use of printers' ink. He is a live wire, he said. Sell your goods right, and represent them as do Mr. Hildebrand and Mr. Ford. Use printers' ink. Let the people know you are in business. Show people what you've got. Take a tractor out on the farm and put it to work. Then go out a week later and close the sale and get the money.

Closing

In closing, Mr. Hildebrand thanked Mr. Woodhead, Mr. Schmelzel for their cooperation, the bankers for their attendance, the hotel for service.

A large number of the dealers then went to the New Park and attended the performance of "Linger Longer Letty".

BRAINERD HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

(Contributed)

School has started. Oh, Boy! That reminds you of what? Football, basketball, baseball and all athletics. Remember a track team also.

The old school woke from four years of slumber and formed on last Tuesday an Athletic Association composed of all the boys from the new Freshmen to the dignified Seniors. The purpose of the association is to bring to the limelight of the sporting world the ability of the B. H. S. students in the art of athletics.

The following officers were elected: President—Abner Swanson. Vice Pres.—Clifford Welch. Secretary—Ray Engbretson. Treasurer—Donald Cloterman. Reporter—Desmond Hurley.

A constitution has been drawn up and adopted by the Association after its approval by the Principal M. B. Sherich.

At the first football practice, fifty or sixty men reported. Most of the candidates for the different honor positions showed a good midseason form and within a week or ten days of good strong practice the boys will be in true form to take on the hard attack of the sturdy warriors of the gridiron from neighboring high schools.

The boys are badly handicapped due chiefly to the lack of men teachers which results in the lack of a permanent school coach for football but Harry Butler of this city has agreed to work up a team for Brainerd. He has had considerable experience in school athletics having been a school teacher in both Minnesota and the Dakotas. A winning team of North Dakota was coached by Mr. Butler for five years.

The cooperation of the whole city is asked by the student body to help the boys in keeping up the name of Brainerd's a sport center and it is hoped that everyone will do his best.

BANKS ASSIST IN CITY FINANCES

First National and Brainerd State Banks Take Over Balance of Revolving Fund Bonds

MAKE POSSIBLE NEEDED PAVING

Also Take $54,000 of Re-paving Certificates—Sinking Fund Com'rs. Aid Too

The First National bank and the Brainerd State bank on Friday took over the balance of the revolving fund bonds other than those taken by the sinking fund commission, and the two banks also took the fifty-four thousand dollars of re-paving certificates. Some of the revolving fund bonds are to be immediately retired by the agreed contract of the abating property owners who have pledged to pay cash upon completion of the work.

A few individuals have subscribed for some of these bonds and they should call at the banks at once and take up the bonds.

Had it not been for this action on the part of the First National bank and the Brainerd State bank with the assistance of the sinking fund commission, it would have been utterly impossible for any paving work to have been carried on this season as no outside bond buyers would touch Brainerd bonds at the interest rates they carried.

The bonds have been taken in the following manner:

First National Bank	$47,000.00
Brainerd State Bank	15,000.00
Sinking Fund Commission	18,400.00
Cash contracts	7,000.00
Total	$87,400.00

The X-Ray and Chiropractic

The Chiropractor spends month after month for three years perfecting the sense of touch in his fingers so that he may correctly ascertain the location of each spinal segment in the patient's back. Even with his adeptness at locating these misaligned or subluxated vertebrae he is sometimes baffled; and to prove conclusively to himself that he is absolutely correct in his findings, he resorts to the X-ray. By taking a radiographic picture of the patient's spine, he is not only enabled to actually see the exact conditions as they exist, but he is also able to show the patient that condition.

REAL ROOSEVELT ABHORRED WILSON AND HIS WORKS

Yet Democratic Candidate for Vice Presidency Slanders
Great Leader's Memory.

MAKING FUTILE ATTEMPT TO WIN ON OLD ISSUES

Fifth Cousin Removed Roosevelt Not Able to Convince Followers of
T. R. by Specious Arguments.

By SCOTT C. BONE.

Touring the country as a candidate for Vice President, Franklin D. Roosevelt is vainly endeavoring to invoke the progressive spirit of 1912 in support of Wilsonism and the election of the Democratic ticket in November.

What would the real Roosevelt—Theodore Roosevelt—the immortal T. R.—say to his followers were he alive today?

Gone, he left burning words which tell all too plainly what his attitude would be at this time.

He abhorred Wilsonism, just as he abhorred Danielism, with both of which Franklin D. Roosevelt has been identified as an under Secretary.

Condemned Wilsonism.

Theodore Roosevelt condemned Wilsonism and the whole Wilson administration in unsparring terms.

Read anew what he said at Cooper Union on November 3, 1916:

"I have been assailed because I have criticised Mr. Wilson. I have not said one thing of him that was not absolutely accurate and truthful.

"I have not said one thing of him which I did not deem it necessary to say because of the vital interests of this republic.

"I have criticised him because I believe he has dragged in the dust what was most sacred in our past and has jeopardized the most vital hopes of our future. . . .

"I criticise him now because he has adroitly and cleverly and with sinister ability appealed to all that is weakest and most unworthy in the American character; and also because he has adroitly and cleverly and with sinister ability sought to mislead many men and women who are neither weak nor unworthy, but who have been misled by a shadow dance of words.

"He has made our statesmanship a thing of empty eloquence.

"He has covered his fear of standing for the right behind a veil of rhetorical phrases.

"He has wrapped the true heart of the nation in a spangled shroud of rhetoric.

"He has kept the eyes of the people dazzled so that they know not what is real and what is false. So that they turn, bewildered, unable to discern the difference between the glitter that veneers evil and the stark realities of courage and honesty, of truth and strength.

"In the face of the world he has covered this nation's face with shame as with a garment."

So much for Theodore Roosevelt's opinion of Wilson and Wilsonism in support of which Franklin D. Roosevelt, life-long Democrat, would now invoke the progressive spirit of 1912!

Abhorred Danielism.

And what did Theodore Roosevelt think of Daniels' administration of the Navy Department of which the Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been a more or less conspicuous factor and part?

In a speech on "Americanism and National Defense" at Chicago, October 26, 1916, Theodore Roosevelt said:

"More harm has been done to the navy by the politicians in power during the last three years than in the preceding thirty. Whatever good has been accomplished in the navy during the last three years has been done by naval officers, who, in most cases, have been snubbed and punished for their proposals as long as it was safe to do so; whereas Mr. Daniels now turns and claims credit for what was thus forced upon him. . . .

"In short, throughout President Wilson's term there has been neglect or positive maladministration in connection with departmental organization in navy yards, aeronautics, mines and torpedoes, and in all other matters affecting the efficiency of the fleet and the enthusiasm of its officers and men. . . . The activity and energy of the Navy Department under President Wilson has been primarily concentrated upon schemes aimed at vote-getting or advertising."

This, then, is what Theodore Roosevelt thought of the administration of the Department from which Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat and exponent of Wilsonism, vain would reach the Vice Presidency and have progressives of 1912, followers of the real Roosevelt, help to keep the Democratic party in power and make Wilsonism endure!

It is inconceivable that any true follower of Theodore Roosevelt will hearken to such a preposterous appeal.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club, doesn't look like the superstitious sort, but he is and he admits it. After the Brooklyn Dodgers had won straight games, photographers went to "Robbie" and asked that he and his players pose because it seemed likely that they would stay in the world series. He demurred and so did some of the members of the team. Finally they were persuaded to relent. This photograph of Robinson was taken that afternoon and the winning streak was broken. His team was beaten by the Chicago Cubs.

Bird's "Love Dance."
On some of the islands of the Pacific, in tropical South America, is found the beautiful bird known as the Jacana. It is famous for its so-called love dances, which appear to be executed by the males to excite the admiration of the female birds. When the mating season approaches the Jacana will single out its favorite lady and try to win her admiration with all its bewitching maneuvers. In the dance the wings are spread and worked in such a manner that the beautiful colored feathers produce a brilliant effect.

Immunity From Second Attack.
The United States public health service says that it is well known that an attack of measles or scarlet fever or smallpox usually protects a person against another attack of the same disease. To some extent this appears to be true also of influenza. Just how long such protection lasts is not known.

SEEK TO AVOID "BLANK WALL"

UNIONIZED FEDERAL EMPLOYEES WANT TRAINING SYSTEM FOR HIGHER POSITIONS.

CONVENTION TO DISCUSS IT

Plan, Which Is Part of the Reclassification Scheme, It Is Argued Would Benefit Government as Well as the Workers.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.
Washington.—Establishment of a system of training for higher positions in the federal system is advocated by the national federation of federal employees. Such a proposal will be one of the main topics for consideration at the national convention to be held in St. Louis next month. On account of the numerical strength of the federal employees' union, composed of 15,000 employees of the government, this union is particularly interested in the plan for a system of training of government clerks.

Members of the big local, which has eight votes at the national convention, the biggest representation in the United States, back the proposal of the reclassification commission for a training school for government workers.

They point to the fact that some forms of such a training school already are in operation in several government bureaus here. The Washington city post office has a modified training school for new postal clerks and carriers, in which the "raw material" is given preliminary instruction before being allowed actually to take up the work of clerk or carrier.

Would Help Workers and Government.

It is pointed out that a system of training for higher positions in the federal service not only would be advantageous to the workers themselves but would be equally advantageous to Uncle Sam. Such training would be part and parcel of the reclassification scheme which the national federation of federal employees is backing on a nationwide basis. It would enable the employees, it is declared, to fit themselves for advancement, instead of being brought face to face with a "blank wall." This "blank wall" is one of the commonest things in the experience of progressive government workers, and it is hard to become well acquainted with such an employee and not soon have him speak of the "blank wall" which he faces.

Many very capable government workers have been facing that "blank wall," beyond which there is no advancement, for many years. They are highly capable and feel that they have ability, but there is no way for them to get away from the "wall." In recent months many of them have looked over the "wall" at the high salaries offered in outside industries, and many have jumped over the "wall" at last, leaving the government service just when they were getting to be most useful to it. It is in this respect, it is pointed out, that Uncle Sam is the greatest loser. Because his civil service offers no training for advancement, the service loses many of its best men just when they become admirably equipped—by government training—to become most serviceable to the government.

Old-Timers Fairly Treated.
The government found itself confronted with the problem of superannuates 70 years old, but who had not had 15 years' service, when the date of separation from the service of thousands who come under the retirement law was reached. However, not many injustices were done the elder clerks who had not had the minimum length of service under Uncle Sam to entitle them to annuities.

President Morrison of the civil service commission says that so far the commission has not acted adversely on a single case of a superannuate who has not had the requisite service and has been recommended for retention.

In many bureaus of the government here such superannuates without the minimum length of service have resigned from their positions already rather than wait for separation from the service. In every case where it has been possible the heads of departments have recommended to the civil service commission retention in the service. In many such cases retention in the service for a two-year period will mean a great deal more to the employee concerned than it does even to the great mass of superannuates who are to be retained at their desks for a two-year term.

The latter, it is pointed out, would even now be retired on annuities, to begin the first of September. In some cases, it is believed, only a pittance kept them in the service. It is declared that one clerk, when pressed for the real reason for desiring to remain at work when he might retire at ease, declared that if he were retired "he wouldn't know what to do with himself."

The Good of Life.

What is the good of life? A philosopher has answered: "Giving and loving and helping." The happy are the helping, the loving are the living. "He who has a tear for pity and a hand open as day for melting charity," he whose good deeds are without wish for publicity or expectation of gratitude—his is the rarest luxury of soul. Charles Lamb tells us that the keenest pleasure he ever knew was to do a good action by stealth and have it found out by accident.—Humphrey J. Desmond.
